DOES ALCOHOL WARM?

A patient was arguing with his doctor the necessity of his taking a stimulant. He urged that he was weak and needed it. Said he: "But, doctor, I must have some kind of a stimulant. I am cold, and it warms me."

"Precisely," came the doctor's crusty reply. "See here, this stick is cold," taking up a stick of wood from the box beside the hearth and tossing it into the fire. "Now it is warm. But is the stick benefited?"

The sick man watched the wood first send out little puffs of smoke and then burst into a flame, and replied, "Of course not; it is burning itself."

"And so are you burning yourself when you warm yourself with alcohol. You are literally burning up the delicate tissues of your stomach and brain."

Oh, yes, alcohol will warm you up, but who finds the fuel? When you take food, that is fuel, and as it burns out you keep warm. But when you take alcohol to warm you, you are like a man who sets his house on fire and warms his fingers by it as it burns.—Golden Censer.

DRINK.

Says the Evangelical Messenger, of New York: "A man was arraigned in the police court in this city for stealing candlesticks, etc., from several Catholic churches and then pawning the stolen articles. He claims to have been a clergyman in his earlier years. As he sat in the police court, clad in ragged and worn garments, his hands trembled nervously, like one on the verge of delirium tremens. The Judge asked him what was the cause of his ruin. 'Drink,' was the laconic reply. Ah! what a floodgate to sorrow, shame and ruin is that word 'drink!' When will all our young men learn the lesson that is repeated in such harrowing, ghastly, daily crimes and calamities that fill our social life with blood and woe? When will the nation rise up in her might and set her heel with a crushing stamp upon the neck of this iniquitous, hell-peopling, God-defying business?"

Two men, one a lover of intoxicants, murdered by a young bartender at Lemon City, Dade county. Score another for the saloon. How long will our people endure its blighting curse?

Five saloons in Chicago near the Nickle Plate railroad shops are reported to have gone out of business since the order went into effect forbidding employees to visit such places.
